TIP is a comprehensive platform providing a unique ecosystem to support innovators and entrepreneurs to succeed through the most critical stages of their journey.

Mostafa Analoui, Ph.D.
Executive Director of Venture Development
Office of the Vice President for Research, UConn

2018 was a record-setting year for companies in UConn Technology Incubation Program (TIP). This is reflected in the total capital raised, revenue, number of resident companies, and high-value employment. This accomplishment is a culmination of dedication, planning and execution by a broad range of players within our ecosystem. This includes UConn innovators, a broad range of external innovators/collaborators within and beyond Connecticut, various entrepreneurship programs, our Executives/Entrepreneurs In Residence (EIR), mentors, angel and VC investors, Technology Transfer and Venture Development team.

TIP is rapidly evolving into a multidisciplinary environment that brings together key internal and external players, who work and support each other, with a focus on the conversion of ideas to impact.

Over the past 14 years, all TIP funding metrics have increased. The highest increase being with Equity and Debt. From 2004, Equity and Debt have increased from less than $10 million to almost reaching $100 million. The other revenue metrics, while not as drastic, have also steadily increased. The number of companies has increased as well, which has had a significant impact on revenue growth.
Since TIP was established in 2004, the total number of companies has spiked. Currently boasting 38 individual companies, TIP has doubled the total number of companies since 2009.
Each time a new company joins TIP, the total number of employees grows. Currently TIP companies have nearly 200 full-time and part-time employees.
